

ECDC - Cyprus is the third country in the European Union with the fewest cases

Cyprus is the third country in the European Union with the fewest cases, according to a post on twitter by the European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control (ECDC).

Based on provided data from a total of 31 countries, the country with the fewest recorded cases is Liechtenstein with just 83 cases, followed by Malta in the second place with 480 cases and Cyprus in the third place with 874 (this number was valid before the announcement of four new cases yesterday).

The European country with the highest number of cases is Spain with 218,011 cases, and Italy comes second with 211,938 cases. Greece is in the 12th place with 2,632 cases.
